

Collins Barwick - Mediator

Collins Barwick's Legal Experience & Background

As a partner in a Workers' Compensation Practice Group for over 27 years, I have handled matters at all levels of workers' compensation litigation. Some of my more impactful cases include mediations and hearings at the Deputy Commission and Full Commission level, North Carolina Court of Appeals, and the North Carolina Supreme Court.

In addition to the above mentioned practice areas and litigation, I have experience in handling traumatic injury by accident claims, occupational disease, asbestosis, chemical exposure, mold exposure and psychological claims, and permanent total type issues such as attendant care and adaptive measures.

I have obtained favorable results at mediations and in litigation before the Industrial Commission, and the North Carolina Court of Appeals.

Articles, Presentations, and Publications

I have spoken frequently at a number of seminars including the Annual North Carolina Workers' Compensation Conference on various topics including occupational disease claims, return to work issues, cost control in the workers' compensation system and case law updates.
