Mediation Background.

Marc Alexander's publication of the blog California Attorneys Fees, starting in 2008, led to his desire to develop a mediation practice, for he concluded that too often, attorneys fees are the tail that wags the dog of litigation. In 2012, Alexander began mediating and publishing the blog California Mediation and Arbitration. He received training from Pepperdine University's Straus Institute for Dispute Resolution, as well as the Los Angeles County Bar Association. He continued to mediate while practicing as a litigator, and in January 2023, he began a full-time mediation practice, affiliated with Alternative Resolution Centers (ARC) in Los Angeles. Directly related to his mediation experience, he has served as vice chair and chair of the ADR section of the Orange County Bar, and he has served as vice chair and chair of the ADR Committee of the Litigation Section of the California Lawyers Association. He is also a member of the Orange County Superior Court ADR panel and the United States District Court, Central District, ADR panel. He also serves as a settlement judge for the Orange County Superior Court.

Legal Experience.

As a civil litigator from 1982 through 2022, Alexander initially specialized in intellectual property cases. Over time his practice broadened to include business, real estate, lender-borrower, landlord-tenant, unfair competition, employment, attorney fee, and other disputes. His mediation experience added personal injury cases to his previous experience in the other areas of law.
