Murray Silverstein is a Partner at Stinson's Tampa office. He has over 34 years' experience in complex commercial, business, and real estate litigation, as well as appeals, throughout the federal and state courts of Florida. Mr. Silverstein also represents lenders, servicers and financial service providers in defense of state and federal class actions, based on secured and unsecured credit relationships in consumer and commercial transactions.

Mr. Silverstein regularly tries cases in both jury and non-jury trials. He has been board certified (and re-certified) since the mid-1990s by The Florida Bar in Business Litigation and Civil Trial practice. He provides an effective and strategic approach to litigation and litigation avoidance, when appropriate. As an alternative dispute resolution (ADR) advocate, Mr. Silverstein regularly counsels' clients through mediation and arbitrations, while also conducting mediations for attorneys and their clients as a mediator and member of the National Academy of Distinguished Neutrals.

Murray has also served on the Florida Courts Technology Commission since 2006, which statewide commission is responsible to the Florida Supreme Court to recommend policy and procedures for e-filing and Florida's statewide e-courts system. He also regularly advocates for the rights of indigents needing access to the courts through extended pro bono representation, and through his service as a board member on the Florida Bar Foundation. Mr. Silverstein previously served as an 8-year member of The Florida Bar Board of Governors, and continues his service to the bar through active rule committee membership and related participation.
